CONCEPT NOTE

The global impact of the COVID-19 outbreak and the resulting biomedical waste is unprecedented. Biomedical waste is distinct from ordinary municipal garbage in that it poses a variety of health risks. Biomedical waste that has not been adequately handled and managed is a possible cause of infection. Hospital-acquired infection can be avoided with careful handling and management of biomedical waste. Apart from the other challenges posed by the presence of SAR-CoV-2, there is a need for proper management to deal with the various types of biomedical waste emerging from various health care facilities, quarantine homes, and centres. This webinar aims to explore the different aspects of biomedical waste during the Covid 19 pandemic and ways to manage the same.

The webinar will address but not be limited to the following Sub-Themes:

- Health Hazards of Biomedical Waste
- Systemic possibilities of Biomedical Waste Management
- Public awareness regarding Biomedical Waste
- Urban Infrastructure and Biomedical Waste Management
- Environmental implications of Biomedical Waste pollution
